SUBJECT: OC ADP Management and Operations
Applications

REF : OC M76-683, dated 2 November 1976

STAT

1. OC-E has only one operational program at this time which requires precedence categorization. The program is and it is used to manage Staff equipment utilization. It is essential to the day-to-day and long-term operations support and should be categorized as essential to OC's mission.

STAT

2. The Office of Data Processing has been asked to conduct a feasibility study of the automation of the inventory management. In anticipation of a favorable outcome of the study leading to the implementation of an inventory accounting system, it is requested that a categorization of essential also be assigned to this program.

STAT

3. In addition to the formal programs above, OC-E uses the capability to perform various ADP tasks. It is suggested that the capability itself be categorized as essential and our uses of it be categorized as useful and important.
